Situational Response: Preparation for an Active Shooter & Prevention of Other Extreme Situations

Active situations are at the forefront of national news. Do you know how to best protect your employees and business?

Join us to learn about solutions to help protect the most important assets of your organization—your employees. Our session will cover the creation of an active situation program, discuss elements to mitigate exposure, review various programs to train your employees, and discuss different situations that may be relevant to your type of business/situation. Space is limited, so please respond today!
